

RYAN A. MCKEON

PARTNER

Ryan A. McKeon focuses his practice on defending litigation matters across a diverse range of industries, representing both national and international companies. He represents clients in manufacturing, real estate, retail banking, and parking management among others, handling complex tort matters involving catastrophic injury and death claims, premises liability, labor law, product liability, transportation and negligent security matters. Ryan has developed an astute ability to evaluate claims at all stages of litigation and implement the most effective litigation strategies for each client's specific needs.

Ryan earned his J.D. from Touro College Jacob D. Fuchsberg Law Center. In addition to his private practice, Ryan serves as a village prosecutor for a Long Island, N.Y. community, where he works alongside code enforcement officers in the prosecution of violations.
