Meet Vaughan & Baio

Joseph Vaughan has spent the past thirty-eight years defending employers and insurance carriers large and small against an array of ever-changing claims and exposures. He has acted as both litigator and advisor to his clients, counseling them on ways to mitigate operational risks and strategies that add value to their bottom line.

Madeline Baio represents product manufacturers, retailers, trucking companies, a transportation network company, national pharmacy chains, supermarkets, food production companies and restaurants in product liability, premises liability, motor vehicle and employment-related matters.
